

'Survivorman' visits Orillia

'Survivorman' visits Orillia. Les Stroud, host of Discovery Channel's popular reality show "Survivorman," will attend the opening night of Laughoutloud's production of "Sexy Laundry" on June 1. Submitted

ORILLIA - Summer theatre returns to the Orillia Opera House for another season with a special appearance by a celebrity outdoorsman.

Les Stroud, host of Discovery Channel's popular reality show "Survivorman," will be on hand for the opening night of Laughoutloud's production of "Sexy Laundry" on June 1.

Stroud will sign autographs and copies of his bestselling book, "Will to Live."

This pre-show party is open to everyone, and gets under way at 6 p.m.

Ticket holders are invited to attend a private, after-party hosted by Stroud, with members of the "Sexy Laundry" cast in attendance.

Running until June 25, Sexy Laundry is the first of four shows planned for the coming season.

Written by Michele Riml, it finds a swanky hotel room occupied by a couple hoping to rekindle the passion in their 25-year marriage.

"The journey from Niagara to Viagra is swift, terrifying and, of course side-splittingly funny," according to a statement issued by Laughoutloud, now in its second season of summer theatre at the opera house.

For more information, contact the opera house box office at 326-8011.

